CANTEEN MAY BE RESTORED.

Strong Opposition to Present Law Before Congress.

MILITARY SURGEONS FILE PROTEST.

Major Souman's Book on Ex-Territorial Service of American Troops Published by Association A Review of the Situation Declares Intemperance Increasing.

The army canteen question will be reopened soon after Congress reassembles next month .

Already numerous petitions and papers from the various army posts of the counon Military Affairs asking that the advocates of the canteen be heard.

Anti-Canteen Law Unsatisfactory. Stiffsties have been prepared, it is said, to show that the abolishment of the canteen has had just the opposite effect from that claimed for it by those who were largely instrumental in securing the legislaffon abolishing the post exchange.

There is now pending before the Committee on Military Affairs a series of resolutions from the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States, which held a national convention in Minnesota last summer. It is set forth in the resolutions that the association recognizes that the abolition of the canteen has resulted and must inevitably result in an increase of intemperance, insubordination, discontent, desertion, and disease in the army, and that it is to be greatly deplored ! that the abelition of the post exchange has brought about many unsatisfactory condition, not thei east of which are the morals and health of the soldiers.

Opinions of Major Senman.

The Association of Military Surgeons has also issued a book written by Major Louis Livingston Scaman, who has made a study of the condition of our troops in China, the Philippines, Cuba, and Porto Rico. The major says he has proof to show that since the canteen has been done away with intemperance has been on the increase, and that there has been an increase in court-martial tripls. Major Seaman considers it impossible to make soldiers total abstatuers by legislation.

The understanding is that hearings will be held by the committee, and that all the leading army men, including Lieutenant General Miles and other prominent department commanders, will go before the committee and recommend the restoration of the canteen.

In organizing a public school system in the Philippines the Tall Commission was enfronted with some very vexatious roblems affecting the religious customs

Customs had to be oradicated, so far as chool discipline was concerned in order that the teachers could accomplish results beneficial to their pupils. So the conflict between those in fever of and those opsed to the teachings of the Catholic Church was settled for all time in the plan, which is set forth as follows:

"No teacher or other person shall teach or criticise the doctrines of any church, nitempt to influence the pupils for or against any church or religious seet in any public school established under this actif any teacher shall intentionally violate this section be or she shall, after due try have been filed with the Committee | bearing, be dismissed from public ser-try where nothing is done too suddenly.

"It had its advantages in this instance in that it enabled the Filipino teachers to carry out the unfamiliar task that had been imposed upon them of grading their pupils and organizing them in classes. This lack of punctuality is one of the serious obstacles to the progress of this people, and it is expected that the discipline of the school, when thorough \(\bar{\bar{\text{e}}} \) established, will contribute to the cerrec tion of this evil.

Referring again to religious prejudices, the report states:
"It is difficult for the church authorities and for many devout persons to compre-hend the point of view of the American people, who maist that instruction pro-vided by the State shall be secular, and in view of the large part the church has played in the political and social affairs of the Phillippines, it is noteworthy that the protect against merely secular instruction has not been more pronounced.

From all parts of the archipelago come native teachers to enjoy these advantages, and it is a noteworthy fact that 10 per cent of those coming from the provinces are able to speak English with some degree of fluency, all being repreentatives of the best cultivation and in-elligence in the islands.

It was estimated in the beginning that there would not be more than 150 teach-ers in attendance, and it was thought that only this number could be accommodated in the building relected for the school, in its last report on the condition of the public school system as established by them in the Philippines, the Taft Commission states that considerable progress has been made, considering the apathy with which the average Filipino regards any measure conductve to his advancement or that of his family.

The commission says, prior to its preceding report, that the work done in establishing and carrying on public schools was without systematic organization, and the first important step was the appointment of a general superintendent, who was given most extensive power.

He was authorized to establish schools to appoint division superintendents, teachers, and clerks authorized by law, and prescribe the duties of such teachers and clerks; to fix salaries within the limits established by law; to establish curricula for primary, secondary, and other public schools; to divide the islands into school divisions; to fix the relation between the principal teacher and other teachers, and to perform certain other functions essential to the effective administration and control of the schools.

Sight and Weeps in Cell, TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 25,-The sight of the gallows in the Mercer County jail upon which Robert Henson is to pay the penalty of his life on Friday next for the murder of Mrs. Mary E. Van Lies and her son, about a year ago, has had a telling effect on George Hetrick, alias Franklin Williams, charged with the murder of John Krause. He has lost all the bravado that has characterized his conduct, and is now as meek as a lamb. He no longer boasts about his crime, and has requested his father to employ good counsel and make a fight for his life.

As Heltrick passed the gallows he stopped and asked a few questions about it. He sighed and wished to be allowed to say a word of comfort to the condemned ma but as Herson's temperament and conduct are bad the request was not granted.
